BANDITS MAKE HAULS

DYER, Ind., Oct. 10.—Five bandits in an auto held up the First National Bank of Dyer at 10:30 this morning and escaped with $10,000, including $6,000 in cash and $4,444 in government bonds. They fled toward Chicago. Dyer is near the Illinois-Indiana border, eight miles south of Hammond, Ind.

Four of the bandits entered the bank, while the fifth waited in the car. A. W. Stommel, the cashier, his bookkeeper and four customers were herded into the vault and the door closed, but not locked. They escaped two minutes after the bandits left and spread the alarm. A posse of citizens took up the pursuit and police in all the south suburbs of Chicago were notified.

Stommel was in his cage when one of the bandits entered and showed a $10 bill through the wicket asking for ten ones. The cashier turned to the (il) to make the change when the man struck a revolver through the bars and ordered him to throw up his hands.

Three more men who had followed the first into the bank drew guns and ordered the frightened customers and the two bank employees to open the vault. While two bandits guarded the six, the others opened a small safe and obtained the bonds then scooped up all the available currency.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 10.—One of three bandits who held up the Muncie State bank at Muncie, Kan., near here, today and fled in a motor car with between $300 and $400 was killed and the other two captured, according to word from Muncie. ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 10.—Robert Hardman, negro messenger for the Grand Avenue bank, was held up today by two men, who escaped with a satchel containing $17,500 in cash and $31,650 in non-negotiable paper. The robbery was committed on a crowded street car near the downtown quarter.

Hardman was taking the money to a downtown bank. After obtaining the cash, the bandits compelled the conductor to stop the car and open the door. They escaped in an automobile.

Five Men Killed As Brick Wall Collapsed

LYNCHBURG, VA., October 10.—Five men, all white, were reported killed and two others injured here early today when a brick wall of a building at Fifth and Church streets, collapsed. The building was being torn down by the city and all of the dead and injured were workmen employed by the city.

The snapping of a plate over an old fashioned fire place caused the wall to topple, catching the seven men. Almost without warning, three men in the gang escaped, two of them by jumping ten feet to the street below, while one had presence of mind to press himself against the wall and escaped, as the lower five feet of the wall did not fall.

City Manager Beck immediately began investigation and City Coroner Nowlin will hold an inquest tomorrow.

SHIPS IN COLLISION ONE SINKS 13 DROWN

DUBLIN, October 10.—Three Irish Republicans just released from prison in Perth, Scott, were among the passengers of the Laird liner steamer Rowan, which was sunk early yesterday morning off the southwest coast of Scotland. The vessel collided with the American steamer West Camak, and sent out a wireless appeal for aid. The Clan Line Clan Macleod, rushed to the scene and in a heavy fog struck the Rowan, which quickly sank. So far as known thirteen members of the Rowan's crew and three passengers were lost.

For a time it was believed that many of the American Southern Synopetized orchestra, a colored aggregation of musicians, which had been touring Europe and the British Isles, were among the lost, but it was determined late last night that all members of the orchestra were safe. One musician, however, died after being taken from the water.

The loss of the Rowan greatly excited Dublin yesterday as a large part of the crew was known here and about half the passengers were Irish.

Steady Growth Of Ohio Business Conditions

COLUMBUS, O., October 10.—Business conditions in Ohio are not going to be as black this fall and winter as some are painting them. In many industrial districts of the state, there is a feeling of real elation over the outlook. Plants which have been closed down for weeks and months, in some instances, are resuming operations. There isn't going to be any boom, but business men are not looking forward to a wolfishly lean season.

These facts are brought out in an industrial survey of the state, conducted by The Associated Press through the chambers of commerce.

Views of chamber of commerce officials show that the great manufacturing centers of Ohio—the steel district, the rubber section, and the big industries in the northern part of the state—are beginning to shake off the lethargy of depression. The unemployment problem is far from being solved, the replies show, but the outlook is hopeful.

Building activity in some towns is experiencing a mild boom, reports show. Quite a few big amusement places, churches and schools are under construction. Here is what the chamber of commerce in the more important cities of the state, write regarding business conditions and the outlook:

AKRON
The rubber companies are working nearly to capacity. Some expect to reach the peak of last year. Conditions are favorable.

HAMILTON
Business conditions show a noticeable improvement over the last few weeks and months. No industries further are curtailing activity, while some gradually are increasing forces. The paper mills and other manufacturers, are working practically full time. Home building continues, and among the larger building projects under way are an arcade building and a $150,000 auditorium.

STUEBENVILLE
Plants which have been closed down for several months, are resuming operations and in some instances approaching maximum capacity. The glass potteries and similar lines report favorably as to the increasing volume of business. The general business conditions in this district show rapid improvement.

unemployment. It is expected that fall and winter business will pick up.

ZANESVILLE
Industrially, the conditions and outlook are not encouraging. Four hundred short mill workers have been added to the American Rolling Mills force; the force at the B. and O. shops has been increased 50 percent; the brick plants have added several hundred men. This is a mighty fine brand of weather, but the cold weather people want to have their own way. Here's for tomorrow!

OHIO—Generally cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Probably light rain in north portion. Colder in east and south portions tonight. Colder Tuesday.

KENTUCKY—Generally fair and colder tonight and Tuesday.

The extremes in local temperature today were: High, 71; low, 40.

UNION EVANGELISTIC SERVICES OPEN

A splendid crowd gathered last evening at the First Presbyterian church for the opening service of the three weeks of union meetings, in which the Bigelow M. E. congregation is to again unite with First Church. The occasion had been looked forward to with eagerness on the part of many, and it was with a spirit of anticipation of something worth while that the great audience entered wholeheartedly into the service.

The big chorus took the leadership of Charlie Wicand as though they had known him of old; and how they did sing! The congregation rose to the occasion and joined with the chorus in singing inspiring hymns, as though they could sing on forever.

This is part of the genius of Charlie Wicand; people take him at full face value, and sing for him because they like him, and believe in him. Of course he cut from a little last night; it is hard to hold his enthusiasm in bounds. But as it came to the time in the service when a spirit of worship was to be looked for, a very marked change in the attitude of the leader was at once evident, as though he was laboring under some great burden, which could only find its relief in the rendition by the chorus of a number so full of deep feeling that the contrast would instantly be felt by all. Immediately a tone and air of deep reverence was manifest, providing an admirable setting for the service which was to follow.

Mr. Wicand has been handling evangelistic choruses for many years, with a wide experience all the way from the great choruses of his tabernacle meetings, to his work in the camps during the war. As a business man years ago in Reading, Pa., for seven years he directed the combined choirs of the city in their song festivals. Later he put aside a business career to enter the service of his Lord in the winning of souls, through the directing of the music in evangelistic efforts.

"Charlie" is a great soul winner, and esteems this opportunity as the greatest privilege in his profession. Last night he told of having seen two weeks ago in an eastern city, in a service he was directing there, a man whom five years ago he had led to abandon the occupation of running a yacht on Sundays outside the three

Skin Diseases Due To Waste Products In The Blood

For Genuine Relief Your Blood Must Be Purified

For real, downright, harassing discomfort, very few disorders can approach so-called skin diseases such as eczema, tetter, boils, eruptions, scaly irritations and similar skin troubles. Notwithstanding the lavish use of salves, lotions, washes and other treatments applied externally to the irritated parts.

To correct the basic trouble—waste products—the blood must be purified. Don't rob your blood. Just clean it out. Nature will do the rest. Pure, rich, red blood nourishes the body and fights off disease.

S. S. S., the standard blood purifier and system builder, is the ideal remedy for skin eruptions. The effect of S. S. S. is to rid the system of the waste products which are causing the trouble. For over 50 years S. S. S. has proven to be of unusual merit. Begin taking S. S. S. today and write for "About the Blood"—free.

The woman in the parable lost her coin because she was careless. There are many men and women lost to the church because someone has been careless. They may have been lost a long time; they are still good coins—but nobody can use them, for they are out of circulation, and by someone's carelessness.

Changing the denomination does not change the value of the coin; if all Bigelow folks would go over to First Church and all First folks would go over to Bigelow, how would Jesus gain? How would His Kingdom be profited? It is the coin—the man—out of circulation that we are eager for, the one where neither God or man can use it.

There are many types of lost coins. One would be the mothers with little children. They are out of circulation; but are they lost to the church? Their lives may be cramped, but what would we do without mothers?

The speaker here told a great tribute to our mothers, telling a most effective story of an angel who plucked a basket of flowers to take back to heaven, pausing to add to it a child's smile, and once again to take with him a mother's smile of deathless love. But by the time he had reached heaven the flowers had withered, the boy's smile had faded to a frown; but the mother's love lasted clear to the gates of pearl.

Suspect Has Capacity Jag

TOLEDO, O., October 10.—After receiving a tip that a member of the Detroit postal robber gang was passing through Toledo, city detectives and postal inspectors rushed to the Union station to capture the supposed bandit. When they arrived they found the suspect, luggage and all, perched peacefully on the baggage platform, the proud possessor of a capacity jag. Giving his name as "Bob" Cunningham, Detroit, he began turning his pockets wrong side out to prove his innocence to the postal inspectors and the floor became flooded with a rain of small coins and crumpled one dollar bills.

At the police station where he was taken he told the turkey he was a "moonshiner" by trade and opened his suit case and produced evidence to prove it in the form of two quarts of raisin jack and a half dozen bottles of nine percent beer. The charge against him was changed.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and lazy. When your kidneys get sluggish and slow you must relieve them. Like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, chills often set in, water salts and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life-saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful of ferocious lithia water drink.

Direct Subsidy Of American Ships Only Solution Of The Merchant Marine Problem

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—President Harding and his cabinet have just tackled the biggest and most far-reaching problem of the administration—something that relates to unemployment, more markets for agricultural products, limitation of immigrant and international relations, is the question of a merchant marine.

Two hours of discussion in the cabinet led to no conclusion except a determination to thresh the whole thing out further at next Tuesday's meeting.

The big question being considered is whether the Harding administration shall take a step, feared by preceding administrations, but nevertheless pointed out as the only solution, namely, a direct subsidy of American ships.

Lasker Says U. S. Must Act
Chairman Albert Lasker has gone at the whole problem with characteristic vigor and has made a report to President Harding outlining the alternatives before the American government. He has shown how this is the critical moment and how America stands at the parting of the ways—either she will lose her chance to build a merchant marine or she will avail herself of a golden opportunity to further in trade 'round the world for the benefit of the American farmer and manufacturer.

Mr. Lasker has the confidence not only of the president but his associates. He foresaw the failure of the United States Mail Company and seized the ships they had been operating for the Shipping Board. Later being vindicated absolutely in the opinion of Mr. Harding by the collapse of the company. That has only served to accentuate the necessity of making it possible for American concerns to compete on the seas with ships flying a foreign flag.

Shippers Need Government Aid
Briefly, it has been contended that the LaFollette seamen's act with its high scale of wages made it impossible for American firms to sail ships as economically as those of other countries. Deficits have arisen from other sources. The question is not the same, however, as it was in peace-time days before 1914, when it amounted merely to a subsidy to American enterprises. Now the government here owns a vast number of ships. What shall it do with them? Shall they be sold at ridiculously low prices at a time when the price of tonnage is at its lowest point and even then let American shipowners concern to flounder for themselves in the face of conditions of competition that are ruinous, or shall the government enter into a sort of partnership with private enterprise, paying a subsidy for mail delivery and other items in order to develop routes to parts of the world hitherto untouched by the American trader?

Says Problem Is National
Mr. Lasker insists that the problem is national, not sectional, that it interests the miner in Arizona as well as the farmer in Kansas. He made a significant speech in New York last week of these points. That speech was unquestionably gone over by the president before it was released to the press.

The farming interests have heretofore blocked a grant of subsidy. They have not seen the close relationship between a merchant marine and a market for their surplus goods. Now that the farmers are appealing to the Harding administration to grant them a direct subsidy in the financing of domestic movement of crops as well as the handling of export trade, the Harding administration is inclined to believe the agricultural interests of the country will support a subsidy plan which will guarantee a merchant marine in the days when business will have revived and ships will again be in demand.

Need Merchant Marine
In other words, the outcry of the farmer against high railroad rates can at least be answered through our governmental machinery but if America must rely on foreign ships to carry her goods, there will be no way to overcome the arbitrary freight rates imposed by ship owners of other nations. It might be too late then to try to build a merchant marine.

Another phase of the whole question is that which touches our foreign relations. The big powers gathering here for a conference of armaments have full well that behind the battleship is the merchant marine, that the size of the auxiliary forces of a nation on sea make that nation weak or strong as the case may be. England could even her navy and still remain powerful albeit because of her merchant marine.

Naval and Commercial Problem
Shall the ships now in the United States government's possession be allowed to go to pieces through mismanagement or through failure of companies to maintain those ships in the carrying trade? It is a naval as well as a commercial problem. Furthermore the Senate votes very soon on an act to exempt American ships from the movement of Panama Canal tolls. England protests that such an exemption amounts to a violation of the Hay-Pamunet treaty which is supposed to insure the British against discrimination. But there is nothing to prevent the United States from refunding the tolls to American ships by means of a direct subsidy. European governments have all been subsidizing their merchant marine. Next Tuesday's meeting of the cabinet may prove of historic importance.

If you want to insure your car, or property of any kind, we would be pleased to do it for you. Office open evenings from 6 to 9 o'clock.

Chief Thing in Life.

Wife Of Farmer Almost Starved

Declaring she was actually starving to keep from suffering awful misery, Mrs. Amy Peterson, wife of a prosperous farmer of Lakeville, Mass., gave out a remarkable statement, recently, in connection with her relief through the use of Taniae.

"Sometimes I wonder how I lived through it all," she said. "I would have attacks of acute indigestion nearly every time I ate anything. Those terrible cramping pains and the distress from gas and bloating were almost unbearable and I just thought there was no hope for me."

"But now I'm eating anything and I feel as strong and well as I ever felt in my life. I've gained back all the weight I lost and six pounds besides and I know from my experience what Taniae will do. It's the best medicine in the world."

Taniae is sold in Portsmouth by the Fisher and Stretch Pharmacy and the leading druggists in every town.—Advertisement.

Revival Is Well Attended

Sunday October 9, was a great day at the Ohio avenue Christian church, New Boston, when Evangelist P. E. Britton preached on the subjects, "Christian Fellowship and 'A Great Revival' to large audiences. C. M. Howland of Portsmouth led the song service in the evening and Elmer Fetter of Portsmouth led the song service in the morning and will continue to lead each evening this week. More than five hundred cards on the revival census have been filled in and returned to the committee thus giving enlightenment on the spiritual condition of the town. Reports of the committee will be given in an after meeting Tuesday evening. Mr. Britton in making his announcements Sunday evening urged the men to help the ladies do the washing on Monday morning so they would not be too tired to attend the evening services. He urged every member of the church to awake to a real sense of Christian duty that the public may be greatly influenced. Services every night except Saturday and the public is invited.

Dangerous Curve Ahead

Rupert Hughes'

comedy drama of American married life with

Helene Chadwick and Richard Dix directed by

E. Mason Hopper

Helene Chadwick and Richard Dix play the leading roles in Rupert Hughes' great picture. Miss Chadwick bubbles over with animation, sparkles with life. She is blonde and bewitching, an artist to her finger tips. And Richard Dix is the Great American Husband to the life. A great acting duo, destined to become famous.

Married life is just one danger curve after another. What are they? How can they be rounded without a crash?—Perhaps you think you know.

"Dangerous Curve Ahead" shows them to you cleverly, lightly, yet with a deep insight into human hearts. It is a picture that LIVES. It is something refreshingly new in the art of the screen.

Rupert Hughes and E. Mason Hopper worked for one year on this picture. Together they evolved the many little touches that make it so amazingly lifelike. We recommend it to our patrons unhesitatingly as the greatest comedy drama ever made, a perfect entertainment from every angle.

In the coming recital, Miss Spencer will sing in comparison with her voice as Resinol by the new Edison, to enable those in the audience to judge whether or not the living voice can be made to live forever. A superb program has been arranged—a program that will reveal all of the fascinating qualities of the glorious voice of Miss Spencer. At times her living voice will be heard alone; at times she will sing in unison with her Resinol voice; at other times she will sing duets with herself. The audience will try to pick the two golden threads of tone apart—to say which one lives for a moment and which one has been made immortal. Can it be

Hearing Is Postponed

The hearing of the young men involved in the celebrated Mrs. Pearl Postwick case did not come up in Municipal court Monday as anticipated but it was announced that the trial will be heard by Judge Sprague Tuesday afternoon.

The young men are accused of assault, the charges resulting from the woman's story that she was taken to the West Side on the night of Sept. 16 in an automobile and thrown out of the machine when she resisted improper advances made toward her.

Mrs. Postwick, the central figure in the case, who suddenly disappeared a few days after the incident, was located one day last week through her arrest at Newport, Ky., and returned here and is being detained at the city prison as the prosecuting witness.

GIANTS PLAYING FEAST OR FAMINE BASEBALL IN SERIES

NEW YORK, October 10.—The Giants are playing "feast or famine" baseball in the title series with the Yankees. In the first game they were blanked with few hits. In the third contest they made 13 runs on 20 hits and yesterday they made four on their nine hits and three of their four runs all in one inning.

The four hits in the eighth inning included every variety save a home run. Emil Meusel opened with a triple to deep left. Then came a looping single by Haulings, followed by an attempted sacrifice by Snyder that rolled out of Mays' reach for a hit. Next a sacrifice by Douglas and line double to left by Burns.

Of these Snyder's was the shortest, yet it was the turning point of the game. It rolled gently between the pitcher's box and first, but Mays, who went for it, slipped and it went uncaught. With the tying run already rounded this hit upset the Yankees and it was quickly followed by Burns' hit that scored two runs.

"Just like Coveleskie at his best," was a Cleveland fan's comment on Douglas' pitching. He said the Giant hurler worked almost exactly like "Covey" in the last year's series, of which he was a star.

One fan, sitting near the Yankees' dug-out, fainted when he was hit on the foot by a foul tip during practice. He repulsed two attendants who tried to lead him out after he had recovered, declaring he had paid to see a world series game and intended to get his money's worth.

"You'd better warm up Hoyt with Mays over there," yelled the Giants from their bench to the Yankees in practice, meaning they meant to knock Mays out of the box. Hoyt did warm up a bit, but not until the eighth when Mays weakened. The subway show artist stuck up to his task, however.

Hundreds of fans who have attended every game of the series, hoping to be present when Babe Ruth hit a homer, were out of the park when the Bambino connected for four bases in the ninth yesterday. They had left early to avoid the crush, thinking the game was as good as over.

It was excellent football weather. Yet the vendors persisted in trying to sell ice cream and cold drinks. There were few bladders. The Giants kept warm in long blanket coats, while the Yankees had heavy sweaters.

Hipp and Kelly, rival first basemen, made their first hits of the series. Hipp's was a single and Kelly's a double. Both agreed their hits would be as good as sulphur and wolasses for them.

Emil Meusel, one of the Giants' hitting stars, has jumped far ahead of brother Bob in their "dinner series". He is hitting .357, while Yankee Bob's average is only .200.

Douglas Says He Can Beat Yanks Again

NEW YORK, October 10.—"Tell the folks down in Birmingham I'll win the world's championship for the New York Nationals, if I am called upon to pitch the deciding game," was the message Phil Douglas gave to the Associated Press today.

And the Giants believe it will be just about Shantlin Phil's turn to twirl again when the all-important game comes around. Should he pitch this contest as skillfully as he pitched yesterday in forcing the Yankees to accept defeat, his team mates are confident he will make good his word to his southern home town followers.

"All I wanted yesterday was a couple of runs and when the boys began hitting in the eighth inning I knew the ball game was 'in'," said the big spitballer.

Up to this time he had pitched skillfully, keeping his hits well scattered, except in the fifth inning, when two hits scored the Yanks' first run.

"I pitched to every batter during the game, including Ruth," he said. "The Babe hit a low splitter in the ninth when he knocked his home run. I think he outguessed me, for he was all set for the kind of a ball he hit. He gave it a good ride."

But Douglas took the measure of Ruth once in the matter of strikeouts, along with seven other Yankee batsmen.

Yanks Far From Beaten, Says Huggins, McGraw Says Giants On Way To Title

NEW YORK, October 10.—"Mays will come back and the Yankees are far from beaten," said Manager Huggins, of the American League, today.

He said he was naturally disappointed at Mays' defeat yesterday, adding that his club is not in its hitting stride yet.

"The Yankees have not failed in a crucial series this season and they won't fail in this, the most crucial of all," he added.

McGraw had high praise for Douglas' pitching yesterday and the playing of his team. He pointed out that his club is hitting the ball now and is on its way to the title.

"The morale of the players is excellent. They share my confidence," he declared.

The Giant chief also took occasion to praise Babe Ruth's gameness for the manner in which he played with a painfully sore arm.

Nothing discloses real character like the use of power. It is easy for the weak to be gentle. Most people can bear adversity. But if you wish to know what a man really is, give him power. This is the supreme test. It is the glory of Lincoln that, having absolute power, he never abused it, except on the side of mercy. He spoke not to inflame, not to upbraid, but to convince. He was the embodiment of the self-denial, the courage, the hope, the nobility of the nation.—Robert Green Ingersoll.

Oiled Axes Stop Friction.
Wheels with ordinary axles actually run on films of oil. When the axle is placed under the microscope its surface, which to the eye is smooth, really is covered with depressions and bumps. So, too, with the inside of the hub of the wheel. If the wheel were allowed to run without oil the bumps on the axle and on the hub would rub together and cause friction. This would cause the axle and hub to become heated and expand and stick.

CHILDREN WHO NEED AN EYE SERVICE

Every school has many of them in it. Often no one knows anything about the matter. If an Optometrist should examine the eyes of all school children the benefit to the children would be beyond computation. Some children succeed at school in spite of their defects of vision, others are handicapped terribly by them. Every parent should make it a point to know as much about their children's eyes as about their teeth. Every interested parent is invited to interview us.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Dimples Tissue Defects.

A dimpled cheek is considered a mark of beauty, but in reality it is caused by a defect in the tissues which lie under the skin. The dimple is a dent or depression in the skin on a part of the body where the flesh is soft. The tissue under the skin is composed of fibers which help to hold the skin firm. These fibers are not of uniform length, and sometimes there will be a collection of the shorter fibers all in one spot.

Is the Earth Drying Up?

Whether the globe on which we dwell is gradually drying up or not is a question that has been much debated. Recent discoveries in central Asia have been regarded by some as favoring an affirmative answer, but others have replied that the observed phenomena are simply periodic changes. One authority champions the affirmative view on the ground that a great number of European lakes have certainly disappeared within the last 250 years.

Origin of Wedding Cake.

The wedding cake dates back to the laws of Romulus and the early days of Rome. Instead of elaborate marriage festivals Romulus instituted the confarretio. The union of the man and woman was solemnized simply and quickly by the eating of a loaf of barley bread together. This marriage ceremony was in force for some generations among the Romans. Then, as civilization developed, the barley bread became a cake.

The proper name of Robin Hood was Robert Fitzooth. The first he emphasized into Robin, and the second into Hood, omitting the Fitz, which is Norman for son (modern French being "fils"), since having been declared an outlaw, he was not unwilling to renounce his claims to Norman descent. That he was really the earl of Huntington, as some historians assert, cannot be proved.

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of That Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn.—"During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered for two years. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound advertised in the paper and got good results from taking it. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish this fact as a testimonial."—Mrs. ROBERT BLOCK, Box 542, Hopkins, Minn.

It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. These are hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., about your health.

way to meet you. Maybe he looks at you because you look at him.

Dear Miss Wise—I am 20 years old and in love with a man seven years older. We have been keeping company for two years, but we have quit now because he thinks me guilty of something of which I am not. I am a girl who has always had the best of fellows in town and the best of times. I have traveled and at present I hold a very responsible position. Dolly, I am real smart and know more of the ways of the world than most women know at thirty and as much as some of them ever will know. I love this man, but I am ashamed of myself for doing so. Why is it that a bright, cheerful girl like myself takes love so hard? He is not worthy of my love. I am a good girl and full of life and I might be able to forget him if some other man would step in and take his place. Am I right in waiting for better and greater things in life? I could get this man back if I tried. Should I write him or not? BRIGHT EYES.

To feel that you are so wise is a mistake. One of the feelings of 19 and 20 is to be overwise. At the age of 25 comes a new youthfulness and a yearning for greater wisdom. Do not write for the man who is not worthy of you to come back. Time will heal your wound and in a few months or years you will realize that fate was kind to keep you free to enjoy better and happier times.

Dear Miss Wise—When a young couple gets married it is customary for the girl to give the young man a ring? If so, should it be a set or not? HIDE-TO-DO.

Some people are married with a double ring ceremony. The girl gives the man a gold band ring.

Dear Dolly—In writing to the Portsmouth Daily Times information bureau at Washington, D. C. would Frederic J. Haskins send the information to my home, or would he send it to The Times office first. FOOLISH JACK.

Mr. Haskins will send the information direct to you.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a young girl of sixteen and I want to know if you think I am too young to get married. I am going with a man and he wants to marry me. What would you advise me to do? SWEET SIXTEEN.

Don't do it. Remain a little girl as long as you can. Learn these two verses off by heart:

Isn't it great to be sixteen,
Though it only lasts for a year.
Why, the best of life is almost gone,
Before we know it is here.

And after the years have hurried by,
And your hair has a silver sheen,
You long for the ruffles and giggles
And wish you were just—sixteen.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

A MYSTERIOUS AUTO TRIP

Arrived at his own home, Ned whisked gaily up to their window in the hopes of seeing his wife's head come popping out, but there was a silence. No one was about, not even his mother.

Slightly uneasy, he walked through the rooms, calling Cherry's name and hoping against hope that he would find her, and they would still have time enough to have a chat before dinner.

Just Phoebe came to the dining room door and grinned at him as she stood, arms akimbo, watching.

"Lars, mister Ned, your young lady's gone a-riding long ago. Wasn't here more fifteen minutes after she done come back from de office fo' Mister Hamlin called for her in dat big crah of his'n. Tey's done gone off for a ride enewehers."

"Thanks, Aunt Phoebe," said Ned, trying to hide the anger in his voice. "I'll be all right, and I guess Miss Cherry'll be back soon. Tell mother I'm lying down when she comes in and be sure and call me for dinner in case I fall asleep."

"Dey's not comin' back for dinner. Dey's done gone off on some visitin' trip, and Miss Cherry fo' me she wouldn't be bray for some time," went on Phoebe, cheerily.

"All right, but don't forget to call me for dinner, anyhow. I'm sure to sleep now, because I'm dead tired," answered Ned savagely, as he turned on his heel.

Ned did not spend the next hour in

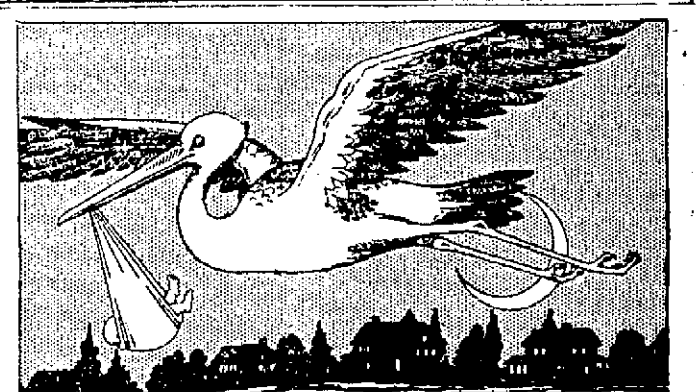

He would fix everything for Cherry and he was as nice as possible and then she would soon forget all about him. Served him right for losing his heart to a flirt. He would never trust another woman.

These and other equally gloomy thoughts chased through his mind as he lay thinking. Even the sound of his mother's footsteps in the hall did not disturb his reflections. Most of all he was to avoid explaining his position and fears to her. And Ned had no key.

The sound of the dinner gong brought him back to the present with a bang. He got up and washed himself dispiritedly, got into a lounge coat and went down to the evening meal.

Fortunately for him there was no one but his mother at the table. Jack was out "courting," as Cherry put it, whenever that youth missed a meal at home, and his mother was in as reflective a mood as Ned himself.

How an EXPECTANT MOTHER Prepared for Baby's Coming

Do YOU know that thousands of women never really suffer at child-birth? Perhaps you have thought with many others that this should always be the case. But how?

Let Mrs. Mattie Paul, of Ocala, Fla., tell you. She is one of thousands who has demonstrated this fact:

"As I am a young mother of one baby, I am writing for free booklet to 'expectant mothers.' I used only two bottles of Mother's Friend before I was confined and had a quick and easy time through labor. I can recommend Mother's Friend to all expectant mothers. I will never go through pregnancy without it."

You, too, can have this booklet for expectant mothers by sending coupon below.

The Portsmouth Public School

Present The Highest Class

LYCEUM COURSE

In Their History For The Season of '21 and '22

Realizing that the public wants the highest class entertainment, the managers of the Public School Lecture Course, this season, have secured what is unquestionably the greatest selection of artists and the highest priced lyceum course Portsmouth has ever seen.

The course consists of seven numbers, each appearing at the local high school auditorium two evenings in succession. Season tickets will be sold at $2.50 for definite performances—blue tickets for the first night and red tickets for the second.

Tickets Are Now On Sale By High School And Grade Pupils All Over The City

In presenting this, the schools' greatest effort in high class entertainment, there is the utmost confidence that the response will be as liberal and generous as the display of such talent warrants.

Were this Lyceum Course purely a money-making proposition for the local schools, or if there were rental to pay for auditoriums, it would be impossible to sell tickets at so low a price as $2.50 for the season, but the school managers believe they are doing a real service to the community in bringing here such an array of talent at a popular price even if the profits are not overly large. The only fear is that folks will confuse this course with the ordinary popular entertainments at popular prices, failing to realize the real merits of these coming performances until too late to secure tickets.

The Public School Lecture Course

Oct. 31, Nov. 1—Evelyn Scotney.

Nov. 9-10—Dr. S. Parks Cadman.

Dec. 22-23—The Vivian Players

Jan. 19-20—The Sam Lewis Company

Jan. 30-31—The Impressario Company

Feb. 9-10—Miss Margaret Stahl.

Feb. 23-24—The Illingworth Concert Co.

THE IMPRESSARIO COMPANY

A Remarkable Company Of Artists

While not detracting in the least from the other six numbers of the lecture course, it is no more than fair to the Impressario Company to say that this is one of the strongest group of artists on the stage today. This one number alone is worth the price of the entire course and in itself is as expensive to bring to Portsmouth as some entire courses have been. The scenery which the company brings and the costuming of the artists coupled with the wonderful renditions of Mozart's most charming and brilliant compositions will, in fancy, transport the audiences to the Metropolitan or the Folies in New York City. In fact it is stated authoritatively that the Impressario Company is in the class of the best professional companies heard on Broadway and that the production is in every way the equal of those New York productions known as the quintessence of beauty in scenic richness; that the costumes are the equal of anything seen at the Metropolitan Opera House, or in any of the best Broadway theatres.

The play of "The Impressario" is a fascinating comedy of classic style, and the admirers of splendid acting and lovers of extraordinary music will have realized great satisfaction when the Impressario Company has filled its two nights' engagement here. To insure your seeing "The Impressario" buy your season ticket now, as no single admittance tickets will be sold that would jeopardize the rights of season ticket holders.

Only One Thousand Season Tickets Will Be Sold For Each Performance

No tickets will be sold in excess of the seating capacity of the high school auditorium and since this is one thousand, it can readily be seen that each company, playing two consecutive nights, can perform before but two thousand people. In case ticket holders fail to arrive to claim seats at any performance, single admissions will be sold to the house's capacity. Tickets for first and second performances are not interchangeable.

Steady Growth

most of them are working on a basis of from 25 to 75 percent normal. The building, which was undertaken in the spring, was one of the largest in the history of the city, the total investment at that time having been between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. This will be augmented with a million or two before the close of the year.

EAST LIVERPOOL

The potteries are operating below their normal output, but the revision of selling prices is expected to help put them back to normal. Some of the large steel plants in this district are closed down, while others are working half time. Mercantile lines are quiet.

CLEVELAND

Business in Cleveland apparently is improving. The general tone of recent reports is more optimistic. In general, business men believe the worst of the depression has been weathered. Monthly employment surveys conducted by the committee on labor relations of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, show a generally improved tone in all lines of industries. Steadily increasing activity in food and textile plants, better business in the automotive industry, following a sharp slump last June are outstanding features.

Building and real estate circles are quiet. Wages in Cleveland district have decreased approximately 15 to 20 percent. While it is impossible to predict accurately just what the industrial future holds, there apparently is a well defined feeling that the situation will show appreciable improvement in the fall.

PORTSMOUTH

Portsmouth is weathering the period of readjustment much better than most cities of her class. This is because of the small diversified industries which all are operated at almost normal, and the three large shoe factories, which now are working upon a gratifying volume of orders. The four large brick plants are operating 85 percent of normal. The Norfolk and Western Terminals, employing about 1,700 men are running at 75 percent capacity. The steel plant of the Whitaker-Glessner Company is also increasing operations.

ALLIANCE

It is about an even break between industries running nearly normal and those operating but a few days a week. Building operations for large construction is better than ever in the history of the city. There are under construction an auditorium at the college, and forum and parsonage at the Methodist church, high school auditorium, new bank building, new parochial school, new market house and an addition to the hospital.

YOUNGSTOWN

Youngstown's business and industrial conditions are improved slightly as compared with a month ago. The steel industries are beginning to operate again. Fall and winter business prospects are fair.

Happy Though Married

Venzelos, former Greek premier, and his bride, formerly Miss Schlietz, indulging in honeymoon foolishness.

MARIETTA

A survey of business conditions a few weeks ago shows factories operating 28 percent of normal. This is a center of an oil field, and the oil men are discouraged because of the low price of oil. There is not much drilling.

SPRINGFIELD

A factory survey shows 40 percent of the 19,000 working people of Springfield now are employed full time. On the basis of these working days, the statistics show that from 50 to 60 percent of the total are employed. However, the majority of the heads of local factories and manufacturing plants are of the opinion that there will not be a speedy return to normal times.

Search Foreign Quarters For Mail Bandits

DETROIT, MICH., October 10.—While federal agents were questioning a man giving the name of "Bob" Cunningham, detained in Toledo, on suspicion of connection with the mail robbery here last Friday, police today instituted a rigorous search of all foreign quarters of the city for the four bandits. The first clue to their identity was obtained yesterday when a trunk containing the mutilated mail sacks and ripped envelopes was found in an alley. Finger prints taken from the envelopes and the trunk were expected to aid the officers.

Police were unable to identify Cunningham by that name and said the fact that a coin bag bearing the name of the National Bank of Commerce here was found on his person might not connect him with the mail robbery. They pointed out that none of the registered packages stolen contained money shipments to that bank. Carl Grebe, arrested Saturday on a technical charge of violating the United States code, was still in custody today, although William MacAuley, the mail wagon driver, failed to identify him as one of the bandits. The trunk in which the mail bags were found, was turned over to federal authorities today after it had been carefully examined by police.

There was no mark of identification on it, but from the part of the city in which it was found, officers said they were convinced the hold-up was the work of foreigners.

All of the mail pouches had been ripped open and all the letters and packages carefully opened, the band overlooking nothing of value.

Horseshoe Pitchers Going To Huntington

The Portsmouth horseshoe team will travel to Huntington next week to meet the champion of that city. Elmer Ottum, manager of the Huntington pitchers, was in Portsmouth on Sunday and made arrangements with Edward Griffin, secretary of the Portsmouth club. It was arranged that the first match in Huntington should be pitched sometime during the week of Oct. 17. Four pitchers will be on each team. The four Portsmouth pitchers will meet their opponents in pairs, and pitch three games. Then the Portsmouth pair will change opponents, each pair meeting the other Huntington pair for another three games. Should the whole match end in a tie, each side will choose a team of two, who will fight it out for the match in three games.

A meeting of the players on the team that is going to Huntington, has been called for Tuesday evening, on the Children's Home grounds at half past six.

SCHOOL BOY KILLED STEALING RIDE ON TRAIN

Victim's Body Badly Mutilated By Wheels

Instead of completing an errand and going to school as his mother had intended Charles Gray, 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, of 1222 Twelfth street stayed away virtually all morning on the errand and spent most of his time riding freight trains, one of the rides resulting fatally for he fell between the cars and his body was so badly mangled he died about an hour later.

Both legs were cut off near the trunk of the body. One foot was cut off, he suffered a fracture of the skull at the base of the brain, was crushed through his pelvic regions, a dislocated left shoulder, a fracture of the right clavical and a laceration of the scalp. Death was due to hemorrhages caused by the amputation of the legs. The fatal accident happened at Tenth and John streets where big pools of blood, bits of bone and flesh show where the body was dragged along the track and ties.

The body was removed from the corner of Tenth and John streets to Mercy hospital where the mangled form was placed on the operating table. All efforts to sustain life were futile, the injuries being too severe.

Just how the accident happened will probably never be known for there were no eye witnesses to the fatal fall between the cars or under the wheels. It is claimed that Gray was with two other boys who had been jumping on N. & W. freight trains as they left the "cut" just west of Broadway street. The boys would climb on the trains near Dudley as the trains run slowly coming out of the "cut." They would usually ride to near Waller street and jump off. It is said.

The fatal accident happened about eleven o'clock. The Gray boy it is said climbed on the south side of the train while his two friends climbed on the north side.

It is thought that his two pals got off on the north side just after the train crossed the B. & O. crossover and that Gray started to go between two cars to join them when he fell to the south rail of the track.

The first blood is found on the ends of the more than 30 feet west of the John street crossing. From that point to the sidewalk on the west side of John street are to be found pieces of bone and flesh. The body was finally thrown clear of the wheels on the sidewalk where it probably hit a telephone pole, the biggest pool of blood being found beside the pole.

SAW BODY FALL

Mrs. Robert Hamilton of the south west corner of John and Tenth was probably one of the first to see the boy after he fell. She was at her kitchen window which is about 50 feet west of John street. Just as she looked out of her window she saw the boy's body roll towards the gutter which is only about two or three feet from the south rail of the track.

Her first thoughts were of her son Everett who is about 15 years of age and has red hair the same as the Gray boy. She ran to her back gate and rushed towards the gutter to grab the body which she claims had stopped for a brief period. She claimed that the suction of the train or something else again caught the body and carried it forward towards the corner just as she meant to take hold of it to pull it back from the track. Another version of how the body was again picked up by the wheels is that one of the legs cut off in the first fall under the car was sticking out toward the rail after the front wheels of the car had passed over it and when the rear wheels of the car came along they caught the body and carried it out of Mrs. Hamilton's reach. The other leg was cut off and the trunk of the body was cut after the body was drawn back to the rail the second time.

Mrs. Hamilton was screaming for sometime and it was hard for neighbors and friends to convince her that the mangled form was not that of her son who had not yet left his school room at Henry Massie school. Mrs. Hamilton says that her body does not ride freight trains but the Gray boy resembled her son so closely that she felt sure it was her boy.

FRIEND TELLS MOTHER

Mrs. Gray, the mother of the boy was told the sad news by a friend who learned of the fatal accident shortly after it happened. The father was at work at the Harrison-Walker Refractories Company's plant in the East End when he was notified. The parents reached the hospital just a few minutes before the boy died. The father going into the operating room. The mother could not stand the shock and refused to go to the operating room.

Charles Gray was 15 years of age August 15 last. He was born near Fulinton, Ky., where most of his life was spent.

Mr. Gray and his family moved to Portsmouth about four years ago. He says he did not know the boy ever rode freight trains. Mrs. Gray sent the boy to Front street this morning to get some insurance papers. He left home about seven o'clock and that would have given him plenty of time to get back home so he could go to

Death Claims J. D. Jenkins

OAK HILL, Oct. 10.—James D. Jenkins passed away at Holzer Hospital, Gallipolis, Saturday evening at 10 o'clock, following an operation for peritonitis. Mr. Jenkins is a well-known hardware merchant of Oak Hill, having been in business here for many years. He was taken suddenly ill Sunday, September 25, and the next day was taken to Gallipolis, where he was immediately operated upon. From the first, his condition did not seem favorable, but being naturally of a rugged constitution, it was hoped he would overcome his weakness. He became worse Saturday morning, his death occurring a few hours later. During his entire illness his devoted wife and children have remained constantly at his bedside.

Mr. Jenkins was prominent in church and community activities, and in his death the town has lost a valuable and influential citizen. Surviving him are his wife, one son, Lew Jenkins, of Oak Hill, two daughters, Blodwyn at home and Mrs. E. J. Herbert (Eleanor Jenkins) of Yuba Linda, California. One daughter, Miss Susie Jenkins, died of diphtheria several years ago.

The funeral will be held at the Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock unless a telegram from his daughter in California causes a change.

Here Is What Cincinnati Workmen Are To Be Paid In The Future

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 10.—A fourteen per cent reduction, amounting virtually to 12 1/2 cents an hour to the unions affiliated with the Wage Board agreement, has been announced by Hubert David Phillips, who was selected in August as the umpire in the controversy between the contractors and the labor bodies.

Dr. Phillips follows the plan outlined by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, arbitrator in the Chicago labor dispute, in that he includes labor organizations not affiliated with the Building Trades Council, these being the bricklayers, carpenters, glaziers, marble setters, painters and elevator constructors. Under the terms of the decision the award is to become effective November 8.

The umpire's award in the wage controversy, the unions having adopted a "standpat" attitude and the employers requesting a reduction of 25 cents an hour, follows:

Cement finishers	$ 77 1/2
Electricians	87 1/2
Engineers	87 1/2
Fixture hangers	75
Plumbers	87 1/2
Painters	87 1/2
Plasterers	87 1/2
Plumbers	87 1/2
Roof workers	67 1/2
Roofers	67 1/2
(a) Composition	57 1/2
(b) Slate	87 1/2
(c) Tile	87 1/2
Structural iron workers	77 1/2
Sheet metal workers	67 1/2
Steam fitters	87 1/2
Steam fitters' helpers	47 1/2
Stone cutters	102 1/2
Tile setters	87 1/2

There are six trades not in the wage agreement. Out of fairness to the trades in the agreement, contractors, who are parties to this agreement, should be guided in paying those trades by the reduced scale of 12 1/2 cents an hour. This would mean:

Bricklayers	$1.12 1/2
Carpenters	87 1/2
Glaziers	77 1/2
Marble setters	87 1/2
Painters	75
Elevator constructors	87 1/2

A Happy Couple.

"Darby and Joan" were an old-fashioned, conservative married couple, famous for their long life and domestic felicity. They are said to have lived, over a century ago, in Henlough, a village in the West Riding of Yorkshire. Darby and Joan are the hero and heroine of a ballad "The Happy Old Couple" of uncertain authorship, although sometimes ascribed to Matthew Prior. According to another authority, however, the author was Henry Woodfall, and the originals were John Darby, printer of Barnoldswick Close, who died in 1730, and his wife Joan. Woodfall was an apprentice in the service of John Nelson Darby, an English theological writer.

Record Classes Are Confirmed By Bishop Hartley

Sunday was a memorable day in the local Catholic churches as Rev. Bishop J. J. Hartley of Columbus confirmed record classes in the Holy Redeemer and St. Mary's churches. He was at the Holy Redeemer church yesterday afternoon, at St. Mary's last night and yesterday morning he confirmed a large class in the St. Peter's church at Wheelersburg. It was a strenuous day for the distinguished visitor but he enjoyed his stay here and so expressed himself at all three services, which were unusually impressive.

Sunday, October 9th, after the dark and bleak clouds rolled away, was made glorious by genial sunshine. The sun's already revealing rainbow tinted beautiful creations upon woodland and landscape canvas, while the air is calm and genial, in a word nature combined to make a perfect day as fitting setting for the sacred ceremonies of Confirmation. The main altar and sanctuary by reason of artistic and ornate decoration of red roses and purple dahlias supplemented by ornamental candle and electric light, as the poets say, "was a dream for the gods." At the appointed time the candidates and sponsors from the school hall of Holy Redeemer filed out in solemn procession, marched into the church to the music of "Onward, Christian Soldiers." The altar clerks with cross bearer and two acolytes escorted the Rev. Bishop and assisting clergy from the rectory to the church where the bishop gave solemn blessing to an immense audience which filled the beautiful church, hundreds patiently standing through out the impressive services. After the beautiful singing of the vesper hymns by the school children the bishop advanced to the chancel railing and delivered his eloquent and lengthy message. The bishop in his preliminary remarks paid high compliment to the good members and pastor of Holy Redeemer church for the material and spiritual progress which is manifest in pronounced manner in the parish. As chief pastor of the diocese, the bishop is constantly in close touch with all the doings of the church, hence he notes with extreme satisfaction and pleasure, the fact that there is always something important taking place in the Holy Redeemer parish. The fact that the Holy Redeemer parish is free from all debt, cheered the heart of the good bishop and stirred him to profound sentiments of pleasure, joy and gratitude. The bishop in high eulogy spoke of the deep interest and generosity of Holy Redeemer people in the Mary hospital and all such grand charity.

In his sermon the bishop eloquently stressed two great facts, the timely necessities and advantages of the Christian home and school. There are the two centers from which radiate the whole social life well being and happiness of the human race. When the family and life, as first founded by Almighty God and afterwards Christianized by Jesus Christ, prevail with their unity, sanctity and permanence, all social life, institutions, peace and happiness of mankind are assured. The bond that defies, or destroys these divine centers, is but overthrowing Christianity and civilization, religion, morality and true science from which flows the deluge. The Christian school first founded by Jesus Christ, committed to the care of this church, during two thousand years of her divine influence filled the world with the first free schools, and especially filled Europe with its hundreds of famous Catholic universities.

As long as this center of Christian education, elementary and high school, college and university remains free from the attacks and corruptions of modern godless materialistic secularized educational thinkers and leaders mankind in its rising generations will not be taught to believe and act as if their origin and life are but that of animals. Without the Christian school, religious, morality and true science, have lost their proper center of influence—result nothing but gross materialism in ideals and methods in all departments of human life, are summed up in the godless maxim, "Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow you die." A novel, interesting and pleasant feature of the confirmation ceremonies was the Cathedral jurisdiction which the bishop held with the boys and girls of the confirmation class. Notwithstanding this severe ordeal, the catechized before all the congregation in their prompt and correct answers, sometimes with a smile, is difficult for the keen theologian to discern who was catechist or catechized, the bishop or the pupils. The bishop was highly pleased with the children's good answers which often times provoked laughter. The parents of the little Catholics had more to fear from the bishop's severe examination than their bright children. Mr. Edward Kenu, organizer, was at his last Sunday afternoon as he flooded the air with appropriate pious and Irish melodies which recited the grand old Catholic faith immortalized for the last two thousand years in the hearts of all Christian peoples. The beautiful form of divine worship known and celebrated throughout the world as the Mass from the days of Christ and His Apostles down to and including our own. From this grand center of religion around which cluster and from which spring and flourish in all climes and places men, women and children made sublime and immortal by sanctity and martyrdom.

COURT HOUSE

Trials Tomorrow

Floyd Bowman, Eleventh street young man, will be brought to trial before Judge Stephenson and a jury in Common Pleas court Tuesday morning on an indictment charging him with burglary and larceny. It is alleged that Bowman broke into the home of one Stella Ross on North Chillicothe street on Aug. 4, 1921, and stole her clothing valued at $123. Bowman denies guilt and he will be defended by Attorney E. G. Miller.

In the afternoon Tuesday Charles H. Foster, a well known engineer, will be tried on a statutory charge. Foster is now in jail for contempt for failing to comply with an order of the court to pay his former wife alimony.

Yost Seeks New Trial

Five reasons are advanced in a motion filed Monday by Attorney E. G. Miller, for the defendant, why Walter P. Yost, former local real estate agent recently convicted by a Common Pleas court jury of obtaining money under false pretenses, should be granted a new trial. The principal claims made in support of the motion for a rehearing are that the copy of the indictment served on Yost was not a true and correct copy.

The crime for which Yost was found guilty was obtaining $150 from Mrs. Catherine Binder last January in connection with the sale of an option he held on her property at 1020 Chillicothe street.

"Married Uniform Instead of Man"

On the grounds of cruelty and neglect, Edith Plymale, 630 Seventh street, was granted a decree by Judge Stephenson in Common Pleas court Monday divorcing her from Glenn Plymale, former soldier.

The plaintiff told the court that she married Plymale last December after a short courtship and admitted that she made a mistake when she accepted him as a helpmate declaring that he cursed her, refused to work and support her and entirely abandoned her a few weeks after the matrimonial voyage was started.

In granting the decree the court told the plaintiff that she married the soldier's uniform instead of the man and advised her to be more careful next time in selecting her life companion. She was represented by Attorney W. L. Hostetter.

Turner on Trial

John P. Turner, Scioto Trail young man, was put on trial before Judge Will P. Stephenson and a jury in Common Pleas court at one o'clock Monday on a charge of forgery.

Turner is accused of forging the name of John F. Snodgrass, Scioto Trail farmer, to a check issued to the latter by Dr. A. G. Stevens, South Webster, in the sum of $25. The defendant, who strenuously denied guilt is represented by Attorney Horace J. Small.

Says Wife Abandoned Him

Alleging neglect and desertion and declaring that the defendant has wholly failed and refused to be a wife to him, Joseph W. Coleman, 1110 Lexington, O. Mrs. Coleman, now living at 589 Columbia street, Seattle, Wash., whom he married June 30, 1913.

Through Attorney J. E. Klabbe the plaintiff has repeatedly told him that she did not love him, would not live with him and declares that in July 1919 she entirely abandoned him.

Mrs. Gambee Given Decree

On the grounds of cruelty and neglect Ivy T. Gambee, 629 Fifth street, was granted a decree by Judge Stephenson in Common Pleas court Monday divorcing her from Jerome Gambee. They were married Sept. 5, 1912, and have two children, aged 5 and 6 years, whose custody was awarded to the plaintiff.

The wife told the court that Gambee assaulted and beat her on numerous occasions and that he failed and neglected to support her and their children during the time she lived with him, declaring that she was compelled to leave him in January 1918, because of his abuse and neglect. Attorney L. A. Thompson appeared for the wife.

On Legal Business

Attorney Guy Blair spent Monday at Peabody and West Union on legal business.

Wife Asks Alimony

Alleging that the defendant abandoned her last April without cause or justification and declaring that he has since failed and refused to support his family, Sadie English, 1311 Center street, seeks alimony and the custody of their two children, aged 6 and 12 years, in a suit instituted in Common Pleas court Monday against John C. English, railroad, 2006 Gallia street, whom she married May 28, 1907.

The suit was filed through Attorney B. F. Klabbe and the defendant was given notice that an application for a temporary allowance will be presented to the court Tuesday morning.

Wife Granted Divorce

Lucinda Lathrop, 697 Broadway street, shoeworker, was granted a divorce from J. W. Rathbun, shoeworker, and restored to her former name of Storor, by a decree entered by Judge Stephenson in Common Pleas court Monday after hearing the evidence in the case.

They were married Jan. 20, 1919, and their married life was one continual round of trouble, according to the story of the wife, on the stand in her own behalf.

She stated that Rathbun frequently

Several Are Injured When Two Touring Cars Collide

OUR AIR DEFENDER

GENERAL PATRICK HAS TOUGHEST MILITARY JOB IN AMERICA

WASHINGTON, O. C., October 10.—The man with the hardest job in the nation's defense organization is General Mason M. Patrick. He's just been appointed chief of the air service with rank of major general. He's stepping into the job from which Major General Charles T. Menoher resigned.

Being chief of the air service means:

THAT he'll supervise the most complicated branch of the national defense service.

THAT he'll have to have a working knowledge of practically every science for they all figure in producing planes and supplies and making planes fly.

THAT he'll have to know every detail of the operations of the army, navy and marine corps, for the air service has to co-operate with all of them.

THAT he'll have to keep up to the minute in the development of commercial aircraft.

THAT he'll have to supervise training of representatives of 50 trades whose work figures in the air service.

THAT he'll have to build up a service that is without precedent or tradition, because the use of aircraft in war dates only from the World War.

Patrick was chief of the air service in France throughout American participation in the World War.

When the war ended Patrick found himself in command of an outfit with 78,000 men, 6,364 planes, 200 balloons, 802 hangars, 32,900 acres of land and 11,000,000 square feet of buildings.

And he headed this organization so well that he got a distinguished service medal and citation.

He was born at Lewisburg, W. Va., in 1862, was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1880, and from the Engineering School of Application in 1889. He has:

Supervised improvement of the Mississippi river.

Commanded the United States Military Academy engineering division.

Aided in river and harbor work at Norfolk, Va.

Imported Great Lakes harbors.

A MISTAKEN MEASUREMENT
VIOLENTLY shocked, as well as inexplicably grieved by the fact that fair fame of its county of Madison has been besmirched by the charge that it is the worst prohibition violator in the country and that even its city and county officials are profiting by illicit traffic, the London Democrat praises its God-fearing and law-abiding citizens and then concludes: "No county is better than its officials, who hold the reins of procedure."
Thus in its distress it is both contradictory and in error. It would seem to charge derelict officials with responsibility for the defamations of the county. But that isn't the case fundamentally. Madison county creates her officials. She is therefore originally and solely responsible for them. She gets out of them just such sort of rule as she would have, a rule she would rather have at least than the defeat of the party. We do not know what is the politics of her officials, but we do know they were elected for no other reason than that they were on the party ticket. The voters that elected them never took thought, to say nothing of heed, as to what sort of officers they might make. They supported them because they were on the ticket and that is all there is to that. It is the fault, the entire blame of the majority of the citizenship, that they have proven unfit and corrupt, if they have.
May be they haven't. Yes, it is likely they are just ordinary public servants with no other conception than the salary of the office, neither bad, nor good, but just following the line of least resistance.

MAY THEIR NAME BE LEGION
WE have another recruit enlisted under our banner of less law making and he is welcome, thrice welcome because he comes from a camp least expected.
A school principal, talking to an audience, composed mostly of women, told them there were too many school laws, too many laws of all sorts, and if half of them were enforced the major portion of the population would find themselves. His advice to his auditors was to get busy and see there was more law annulling and less law enacting.
Altogether sensible advice. There may or may not be a need for a certain number of laws. Some fellow merely conceives there is and proposes we have statutory regulation. Immediately his proposal takes on form and substance, in the minds of small politicians and soon it is written in the acts of some fool legislature. And whereupon other fool legislatures proceed to copy it.
Getting the law or the ordinance passed is one thing, making it effective is another. Mostly everybody forgets about it, always the authorities whose business is to regard it do. After awhile some fellow stumbles upon it and finding it unobserved, instead of swearing out a warrant against the violator, he comes around to the newspaper and asks it to agitate for its observance, to "skin the officials alive," until they are forced to take action.
The wisest thing authorities and newspapers do is ignore the bulk of the laws.

EASILY SATISFIED—IF TRUE
THE senate is still puttering away with the taxation bill. After profound conferences, some with the President himself, it comes from the committee that the rate on the excess incomes taxes are going to be cut from 60 to 35, instead of 32, and that will, probably, be agreeable to the house, while the excess income tax will be cut out entirely and may be a three cent postage rate fixed.
The house is complacent, if it will accept that sop and, of course the man who makes millions, will consider that on the whole he is getting off quite well.
True enough there will be a vigorous kick on the three cent postage, but that doesn't amount to anything, because in the end there will be "no such animal."
Undeniably, the government is sore pressed to find revenues to meet its tremendous expenses, an increased postage is an apparent and just recourse to gather in a goodly portion of them, but the party leaders know what an unpopular tax is, all are so but some more than others, and realizing that three cent postage affects more votes than any other that could be devised, it presents no charm of enticement to them. They'll steer away from it, except as the last resort.
No use urging upon them that the postal service isn't paying its way and those who use it should pay the cost and more. The populace would find all too willing voice of protest through the newspapers, which fear they will be the worst sufferers should it come to tinkering with postage rates.
As to the Ka Klux Klan investigation, the brave chief of police passed it on to the fearless district attorney, the fearless district attorney passed it on to the impartial court, the impartial court passed it on to the implacable department of justice, the implacable department of justice passed it on to congress for an investigation. Bah!
President Harding has invited a trio of dinky countries into what looks like he intends to make the beginning of his super association of nations.
The chief feature about the news from Washington these days is that today it is one thing and tomorrow it will be another exactly the contrary. The "open mind" does not seem to function any more certain than "the return to normalcy."

Had the famous Dave Cheatwood been in Thursday afternoon he might have seen an unfailing sign of an early winter, a scant town market.

Modern Inventions Come Rapidly.
The telephone was a toy in 1876; the typewriter a crude arrangement in 1878; the electric industry a baby in 1879, when Edison invented the incandescent light, the phonograph was a curiosity in 1890, and moving pictures a flickering experiment in 1895.

The Three X's.
The crosses on barrels of beer to signify degrees of quality were in the old days put on by the monks as a sort of trade mark. They were crosses, and meant an oath sworn on the cross by the brewer that the nature contained good liquor.

New-York-Day-By-Day
BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, October 10.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up and came Galloway to photograph my dog. My wife's music master came and breakfasted in our Chambers and I away to the ferry place to see some bees lived in a glass and heard a lecture about them which interested me not at all.
Bought this day a gay head piece, cream coloured with a brown sash, very noble. Went with Ohio Sale, the play actor, to see him in pictures that more and most amusing they were too and I bought a brave box of Japanese ready for him to give to Mistress Mar-o.
My rent raised again. God preserve us. Home where I finished a sketch which may bring something considerable. To clear all matters about my debts I with reluctance paid every score and found myself easy in mind but light in purse.
In the afternoon through the town. All the people mightily eyed my hat. Saw Channing Pollock, Victor Herbert, Charles Dillingham, and Miller Huggins on the highway. Sat awhile to watch a play rehearsal and A. Erlanger there too.
Dine with my wife and her mother on a hog's harslet with potatoes fashioned in cream. Then to see an inept play called "Spring" and nodded most of the time. And so to bed and to sleep, very brokenly.
Reuben is to move—so the story goes. His delicatessen shop on upper Broadway has long been the haven of what is left of after theatre night life. His special sandwiches at $2 a copy took the town by storm. One night a patron giving a midnight supper sent for a ham.
When the bill came the charge was $25 and the patron protested. Reuben sued him the patron won the case and to show he was not a tightwad he gave on the day of the verdict $2,500 to charity.
But he had just tasted blood and was a glutton for revenge. It is said he skinned around and bought the building in which Reuben was located.

Bide Dudley has had his first novel published. It is a boy's story called "Bolivar Brown," and many of the incidents were true in Bide's life in Kansas. Two book reviewers say that it rivals Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn. At any rate at Breckenridge they told me that last week it was the leading seller. Bide is a popular newspaper man who now runs a column on the Breckenridge World and writes plays on the side. He came to New York from the Kansas City Star, where a lot of mighty fine and progressive newspaper men come from. And they all make good.

Public Opinion of Congress
It is, we think, within the facts that the country is not satisfied with Congress as matters now stand. It is not yet fair to say that the people have lost confidence in the present body, although conscious of its mistakes, some of which are inexplicable; but the trend of feeling toward it is not by any means what the administration would have it.
There is a sentiment abroad over the country that while business has been in distress Congress has been dilatory, stultified and chiefly concerned over minor partisan politics. These are times when party politics of any sort except that which is inspired by the principle that "he serves his party best who serves his country best" is entirely out of place and wholly objectionable.
It is true that tremendous difficulties faced Congress, and that they were inherited from a former administration. It is true that patience, under all the circumstances, is a virtue. But the country has been in no mood to tolerate a Congress chiefly concerned with the personal political fortunes of congressmen seeking to promote the selfish interests of their own districts rather than the general welfare. In matters of that kind guilt is personal as well as a party liability—a fact bearing directly on next year's election.
Senators and representatives have been enjoying life. Business men have not enjoyed the tasks before them, and undoubtedly they resent the loitering, the time-wasting, the self-indulgence which have marked congressional sessions. The biggest political asset Congress could create for itself would be the granting of a reputation for disinterested industry having the sole purpose of improvement in the state of the Union.

Reading for Business
Since William Matthews wrote "How to Get On in the World" forty years or more ago there have been a multitude of books on business, all helpful in one way or another. But the output is growing smaller. Business men, executives and daily newspapers, some general in purpose, but most of them devoted to one particular line of merchandise or manufacture, have taken the place of technical books in the reading of business men. They fill a real necessity.
But to be a well equipped business man in this era when business sense and knowledge are quite essential to the success of the professional man as to that of the merchant or manufacturer, one must know and understand the fundamentals of economics, the principles of government and politics, and the underlying emotions and aspirations of men which brought about the drastic changes in the development of our civilization. These may be studied and mastered only by the reading of books.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED
You will be prompt in filling a dancing engagement with a young woman. The moment the music starts you will excuse yourself from the girl with whom you danced previously and seek your partner for the next dance.
You will, when invited to a dancing party, be courteous enough to your hostess to dance instead of remaining in the hallways or ante-rooms looking on.
You will not leave the young woman with whom you have danced standing alone waiting for her next partner. Either return with her to her chaperon or find a seat for her.

DOG KOKO'S KOLUM

Today
Sure, this world is full of trouble—
I ain't said it ain't.
Lord! I've had enough an' double,
Reason for complaint.
Rain an' storm have come to fret me,
Skies were often gray;
Thorns an' brambles have beset me
On the road—but, say,
Ain't it fine today!

What's the use of always weepin',
Makin' trouble last?
What's the use of always keepin'
Thinkin' of the past?
Each must have his tribulation,
Water with his wine;
Life it ain't no celebration,
Trouble? I've had mine—
But today is fine.

It's today that I am livin',
Not a month ago,
Havin', losin', takin', givin',
As time wills it so.
Yesterday a cloud of sorrow
Fell across the way;
It may rain again tomorrow,
It may rain—but, say,
Ain't it fine today!
—Douglas Malloch.

In Days of Old
Nero was giving a little party for the benefit of his latest flame. After a dozen or so gladiators had been carried from the arena mortally wounded, he turned to her.
"How do you like it?" he asked.
"Oh," she gasped, "I think it's just too killing for words!"

Consolation
The long suffering family man gazed thoughtfully at his wife's new ultra-modern skirt.
"Well, what do you think of it?" she inquired.
"At least," he replied, "we won't have to have it cut down when our daughter is old enough to go to school."

Ever Thirsty
Man starts at noon to catch the fish. That always goes away. But he brings back the same old lie. To end his fishing day.
—Houston Chronicle.

A Great Light
The skipper was examining an ambitious gob who wanted to be a gump's mate.
"How much does a six-pound shell weigh?" he asked.
"I don't know," the gob confessed.
"Well, what time does the twelve o'clock train leave?"
"Twelve o'clock."
"All right then, how much does a six-pound shell weigh?"
"Ah," said the youthful mariner, a great light dawning on him. "Twelve pounds."

An Added Attraction
"In one way the auto is far ahead of the airplane."
"How's that?"
"Well, if anything goes wrong with the auto, you can always get out and push."

Complete Equipment
A disabled soldier had been so long in the hospital that it seemed like home and he was anxious to impress its merits on all callers.
"Why," he exclaimed, "it's the most complete in the country. They have an eye specialist, a throat specialist, a nose specialist, and they even have internecine for internal diseases."

Chief Requisite for Success
